This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PRINTED BY VOTE OF THE TOWN.

INTRODUCTION.

In the Town Report, published in 1885, the town clerk called the attention of the town to the importance of printing its records, and recommended that a small appropriation be made each year for that purpose, to the end that eventually the whole of its records might be reproduced in print. The subject was brought before the town at the April meeting, 1885, and an appropriation was made for the purpose of printing the record of births, marriages and deaths, under the direction of the town clerk. An additional appropriation was made at the April meeting, 1886.

Under these votes the present volume has been printed. It contains the first two volumes of town records of births, marriages and deaths, and covers a period of 210 years—1635 to 1845. An appendix is added, containing the certified copies of records of marriages solemnized prior to 1800, returned from other towns, in compliance with the provisions of Chap. 84, Acts of 1857. The original volumes were never indexed.

A copy of the first book was made, and furnished with an index, over twenty years ago by Calvin Guild, a member of the Dedham Historical Society, and author of the Genealogy of the Guild Family. This copy was accepted by the town, March 7, 1864, and has since been generally used by those who have had occasion to consult these records.

The leaves of the manuscript volume are very brittle, and although the first book was several years ago carefully interleaved and rebound, yet in many places the leaves have broken, and parts thereof been lost. In such cases when it was possible the lost parts have been supplied from Mr. Guild's copy, but in brackets.

The book containing the original entries for the first forty years has disappeared. At a meeting held 15 : 11 : 1672, "it was ordered that the register shall be transcribed at the town's charge," which seems to have been done soon after, for the entries in the first volume from the beginning of the book to 1674 are in one handwriting.

In 1880 the second volume was copied by order of the town, and certified by the town clerk, and furnished with an index. This book contains the records to 1845. Since that date they have been kept in the books provided by the State, containing blanks for a more detailed record under the provisions of statutes passed about that time.

In the first volume, pages 1 to 129, the order of entries in the original book has been followed; but in the second volume, the order of entries in the certified copy has been followed in which the subjects are classified instead of being mixed as in the original volume. Following the introduction will be found a table of contents, which will be found very serviceable in examining this volume.

The labor of transcribing the original records for the printer has been very acceptably performed by Miss Sarah B. Baker, who has also rendered valuable assistance in making the index. The proof sheets have been read with the original record by the Editor.

THE INDEX.

One index only has been made for the two books contained in this volume, but the surnames and christian names have both been arranged in alphabetical order, and combined and condensed as much as possible. Many of the surnames have different methods of spelling, and not unfrequently are incorrectly spelled. The plan adopted in the index has been to combine all the different methods of spelling the same name under one of the common methods thereof. Cases where no christian names are given are indexed under the surnames by a —— at the end of the christian names. In quite a number of instances in the record Louis is written as a female name; these are indexed under Louise or Louisa. Catharine and Katharine under the same surname are indexed under Catharine. Ann, Anna, Anne, Annie are always combined under one spelling. On page 234 will be found the record of an infant utterly destitute of any name. On pages 43, 68, 80 and 118 are marriages of several servants, in which only their christian names are given. There are a few entries which could not be indexed at all, for the reason that the surnames are wholly lost; these are to be found on pages 13, 14, 16, 40, 41, 42, 57, 58 and 62.

In the verification of the index three names were found to have been omitted, viz.: Nathaniel Chickering, page 14; John Doggett, page 132; and Horatio Clark, page 144. In the following instances the printed text should be corrected, namely: p. 19, line 33, read Milles instead of Miller; p. 75, line 17, read Keziah instead of Hezekiah; p. 120, line 2, read Silace instead of Silence; p. 135, line 41, read Suca instead of Luca; p. 166, line 39, read Daniel instead of Samuel; p. 170, line 38, read Burnham instead of Bumham; p. 174, line 14, read Hastings instead of Haskins; p. 186, line 45, read Harvey instead of Havey; p. 192, line 21, read Susan Jane instead of Sarah Jane; p. 199, line 2, read Nathaniel N., instead of R.; p. 218, line 18, read Muzzey instead of Buzzey; p. 152 the record of birth of Caroline Matilda Wood omit the comma after Caroline. On pages 7, 129, 129, in the name printed Dray, in the original the last letter may be intended as a contraction of "per" instead of a "y." One page 4, line 29, the last part of the surname is gone, and from Mr. Guild's copy the last two letters were supplied in brackets, but as the sixth letter is e instead of o, as printed, the name is probably Wheeler instead of Wheelock.

METHODS OF RECKONING TIME.

A brief explanation of the methods of reckoning time, and the various changes therein, may not be out of place in an introduction to a printed volume of ancient records.

The length of a year is the space of time required for the earth to revolve around the sun, namely: 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 49 seconds and seven-tenths of a second; but for convenience it has been found necessary to lump the fractions together so as to make up a day therefrom. As early as 45 B. C., Julius Cæsar, by the help of an Alexandrian philosopher, introduced the present arrangement of making the year consist of 365 days, with the addition of one day every fourth year to absorb the odd hours. At the time of the Council of Nice, A. D. 325, the Vernal Equinox (the time when the days and nights are of equal length in all parts of the world) fell correctly on the 21st of March. But the addition of a whole day every fourth year was found to be too much by 11 minutes, $10\frac{3}{4}$ seconds, so that the beginning of the year was constantly being moved ahead of the point at which it was in the days of Julius Cæsar. In 1582, Pope Gregory XIII undertook to reform the Calendar. He found that since the Council of Nice there had been an over-reckoning of ten days, so that the Vernal Equinox fell on the 11th of March. To correct the past error he decreed that the 5th day of October, 1582, should be reckoned as the 15th; and to keep the year right in future, the overplus being 18 hours, 37 minutes, 10 seconds in a century, he ordered that every centurial year that could not be divided by 400 (1700, 1800, 1900, 2100, etc.,) should not be bissextile or leap year, as it otherwise would be; in other words, that the extra day should be dropped three times every four hundred years. The following rule has been made to determine in all cases the number of days in each year under the Gregorian method.

Every year whose number is divisible by 4, except those divisible by 100, and not by 400, consists of 366 days, and all others of 365 days.

The Catholic nations in general adopted the Gregorian style, but the Protestants were too much inflamed against Catholicism to receive from the Pope even a pure, scientific improvement. A bill to reform the Calendar was brought before the British Parliament in 1585, but was not passed, and for nearly two hundred years the British people endured the inconvenience of the old style rather than adopt the Gregorian calendar. It was at length adopted in Great Britain and her colonies in 1752, when it became necessary to drop eleven days. But the Protestant populace of Great Britain were even then violently inflamed against the statesmen who carried the bill through Parliament. They believed they had been defrauded of eleven days of their destined lives. It is said that for some time afterwards a favorite opprobrious cry to unpopular statesmen in the streets was, "Who stole the eleven days?" "Give us back the eleven days!"

The act of Paliament provided that after the second of September, 1752, the next ensuing day should be held as the fourteenth, and that three of the four centurial years should, as in Pope Gregory's arrangement, not be leap years. From 1582 both styles continued to overrun the true time in the same proportion until the year 1700, which was leap year under the Julian method, and gained an extra day, but under the Gregorian method came within the exception and dropped the extra day. In changing the dates in this volume prior to September 2, 1752, so as to correspond with the new style, it will be necessary to add ten days to the date given in the record for all dates on or before February 29, 1700, and eleven days for all dates on and after March 1st of that year.

Previous to the adoption of the Gregorian calendar, the year had different days of beginning at various periods in the same and different countries. In England, in the 7th and as late as the 13th century, the year began on Christmas day, but in the 12th century the Anglican Church commenced the year on Annunciation or Lady Day, March 25th, as did also the Civilians in the 14th century, and this continued until the adoption of the new style; but for a long period prior thereto the historic year, so called, had commenced on the first day of January, so that at the time our records begin, and for a considerable period prior thereto, the two modes of reckoning the commencement of the year existed in Great Britain and her colonies—the civil, ecclesiastical or legal year with March 25th, and the historical year with January 1st. Boston almanacs made the change from March to January, in 1687, and the Boston News Letter in 1717.

The same act of Parliament which struck off the eleven days in September, 1752, enacted that the year should thereafter begin with January 1st. The two lines of introduction to the first book indicate that here "the year is accounted to begin the first day of the first Mo. called March." At first the months were more commonly called by their numbers than by their names. 1 Mo. for March, 2 Mo. for April, 3 Mo. for May, and so on; the months named from the Latin numerals, September, October, November and December, are frequently written 7ber, 8ber, 9ber and 10ber. To prevent confusion, the same practice was very early adopted here as elsewhere in the colony of double dating, i. e., giving both years to all dates between January 1st and March 25th; as, for instance, February 10, 1721–2, meaning February 10th of the year 1722, which began January 1st, and of 1721, which began in the preceding March, and this practice of double dating continued until the adoption of the new style by Parliament, September, 1752.

The town, though settled under a grant from the General Court in 1635, was incorporated as DEDHAM under a second grant in 1636, September 8th, according to the Colonial Records, but according to an entry in the Town Records, September 10th. This latter date was taken, 50 years ago, and 11 days added thereto, to change from old to new style, and the 200th anniversary was celebrated September 21, 1836. For the 250th anniversary in the present year the town adopted again September 21st as the day of celebration, for the reason, stated in the committee's report, that it was the day adopted 50 years ago, and especially because it was a convenient day of the week. But according to the rule above given the difference after March 1, 1800, between old and new style, would be 12 days instead of 11. Taking then as the authentic date that given in the Colonial Records, and adding thereto the 12 days, we have as our correct anniversary day September 20th. It seems fitting that this the first printed volume of our Town Records should be issued upon our 250th anniversary; to the commemoration of that day, therefore, this volume is reverently dedicated.
